Walk through Osaka's Historic Past

Sakka Castle - Golden Castle

[illegible]

Osaka is alive with an array of traditional arts. Since Osaka's establishment as an old castle town, successive generations have handed down a thriving culture of traditional arts.

Noh plays are a traditional form of Japanese entertainment, and one of the oldest dramatic performance in existence that continues to be performed close to its original form.

Bunraku
Originating in Osaka more than 300 years ago, Bunraku is a form of traditional puppet theater still performed today, and is registered by UNESCO as a World Intangible Cultural Heritage.

Kamigata Ukiyo Museum
Ukiyoe's first lateral Japanese woodblock printing. The museum features prints of Osaka Kabuki actors in this unique art form.

Enjoy Osaka's Traditional Festivals

Shriemaji Temple

Japan's oldest officially administered temple was founded by Prince Shōtoku in 593. Visitors to Shitennoji Temple will experience traditional Japanese culture including enjoying kaiseki (garden tea) in one of the four tea rooms in Harboro gardens.

akka Tenjin Festival (7/24 - 25)

Osaka's Matsuri is one of Japan's largest and oldest. It's dating back to the year 849. This two-day festival features purification ceremonies and processions of floats, known as floats, including the evening boat parade with over 100 floats. It boasts a procession of Osaka's many rivers while boats float the sky.

Tokai Ebisu Festival (1/9 - 11)

Visitors pray for prosperity in business for the coming year in the Tōdai (Tōdai) Ebisu Festival. The Imaniya-Ebisu jinja (shrine) hosts the biggest festival of all the shrines. This festival is unique to Osaka, the city of commerce.

Kishime Udon consists of Udon in noodle in a broth with fried Tofu, Osaka-zushi (Osaka style sushi) is different than traditional Tokyo sushi-sushi in that it is pressed or steamed. And Tsacchiri is a figgy (sweetish) hot pot light stew. In addition to traditional dishes, more modern Osaka style food includes Konnyaku (a seaweed jelly) and Tanpopo (wheat flour dumplings with octopus). These are just some of the unique variations of traditional Japanese food found in Osaka.
